Summer Programming and Communication Support

The Center for Communication Excellence (CCE) of the Graduate College is here throughout the summer to provide you free assistance in your writing, speaking, and interpersonal communication development! Make sure to take advantage of the following opportunities:

Join a summer Peer Review Group (PRG)

Sign up for a PRG to receive helpful input on your writing from a supportive group of fellow graduate students. Groups meet weekly, and sessions will be organized around group members' schedules. Fill out an application before the deadline: Friday, May 21.

Join a Writing Accountability Group (WAG)

Don't let Summer 2021 pass you by. Make progress on your writing in a WAG to build proactive writing habits in an environment that holds you accountable to your set goals. Fill out an application before the deadline: Friday, May 21

Join a Peer Speaking Practice Group (PSPG)

Sign up for a PSPG to learn helpful strategies for interpersonal communication or meet with peers in an informal setting to practice general communication skills. Groups meet weekly in June. Seats are limited; sign up now!

Enroll in a research writing or science communication course (Fall 2021)

GR ST/ENGL 536: Preparing Publishable Thesis/Dissertation Chapters
GR ST/ENGL 566: Communications in Science

These courses are open for enrollment for Fall 2021 semester. These classes will provide useful strategies for communicating your research to specific audiences. Contact Dr. Sarah Huffman at shuffman@iastate.edu if you are interested in either course.

Join the CCE Consulting Team
